

NIXON RESIGNS

GERALD R. FORD

Ford Takes Office As 38th President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gerald R. Ford became America's 38th President at high noon today, a plain man vaulted to the pinnacle of power by the scandals that shattered Richard M. Nixon's government.

Automatically, under terms of the Constitution, Ford ascended to the nation's highest office at the effective hour of Nixon's resignation.

Ford is the first President never to face national election, succeeding the first president ever to quit voluntarily.

As the transition of power was formally ratified at solemn swearing-in ceremonies in the Oval Office, Nixon was in the presidential jet high above the heartland of America, heading home for California, a private citizen once more.

He had taken tearful leave of the White House two hours earlier, telling the men and women who served him that only a man in the deepest valley can know "how magnificent it is to be on the highest mountain."

Before walking into the office that now is his, Ford declared himself ready "to start to build."

Sources close to Ford say he plans to keep the entire Nixon Cabinet and most of the top White House staff while gradually working in his own people. They will come mainly from his vice presidential staff and a long list of former colleagues in the House.

At the outset, he plans to place primary emphasis on a smooth transition of power within the White House and government before turning to pick the man who will be the nation's second appointed vice president. Ford was the first.

Though Ford associates differ on his prospects, former New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller heads an initial list of 12 vice presidential possibilities. The list is expected to grow as the new president asks the views of a broad WASHINGTON (AP) — Gerald R. Ford ascends to the presidency at the stroke of noon today, a plain man vaulted to power by the scandals that shattered Richard M. Nixon's administration.

He becomes the first president never to face national election, succeeding the first president ever to resign.

To a troubled nation weary of Watergate, Ford pledged "my best efforts in cooperation, leadership and dedication in what's good for America and good for the world."

A simple ceremony in the White House Oval Office was arranged to swear in Ford, the House Republican leader when named by Nixon last October 12 to succeed Spiro T. Agnew, who resigned as vice president and was convicted of tax evasion in a bribery and kickback scandal.

Ford's wife, three sons and one daughter, his embryonic official family and a few close friends were to join a national television audience in watching the formal transition of presidential power.

But Nixon was not. He planned to

'Enemies' Of Nixon Still Bitter

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohioans whose names appeared on the publicized list of Nixon enemies appeared neither to forgive or to forget after the President resigned.

"I really think Richard Nixon belongs in jail," said 32-year-old Fred McConaughy, vice president of Kettering-Oakwood Times near Dayton.

"The speech, itself, was rather arrogant, especially from someone who would sell government to the highest bidder."

Norman Wain, a Shaker Heights business consultant, accused President Nixon of believing "only in the imperial presidency."

"Mr. Nixon tried to equate loyalty to him with loyalty to America," he said. "In the final equation he was the least loyal of all."

"He didn't believe in the constitutional system, the system of checks and balances."

"The country will be better off without him," said Peter B. Lewis, 40, president of an insurance holding firm in Shaker Heights. "I'm not quite certain whether in the long run the constitution would not have been better served if the impeachment process had run its course."

"If he is not to be tried in the Senate, then he should be held accountable in a court of law like the rest of us."

McConaughy agreed. "I think if you give him immunity from prosecution simply because he was President that's putting the President above the law, which was what Richard Nixon had in mind up until now," he said.

Ronald B. Cohen, 40-year-old Cleveland accountant, thought "it would have been good to have had impeachment work," but he predicted a congressional effort to provide the President with immunity to prosecution.

"Congressional sentiment is going to be 'The poor guy's gone through enough,'" he said. "Stop and think what the man has put the country through. There couldn't be enough punishment appropriate."

But some Republicans doubt that Ford would pick anyone who has been sharply critical of the Nixon administration, such as Richardson, Hatfield, Brooke, Percy and Anderson.

Ford, himself, has talked in the past of the need to broaden the GOP. In 1968, he urged presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon to select a more liberal running mate, such as New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, to broaden the appeal of the minority GOP.

In planning his new administration, Ford secured a promise from Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to stay on. He had developed ties with Kissinger early in his vice presidency.

Last spring, Ford expressed doubts about the political acumen of Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger, but no early change is likely. Secretary of Interior Rogers C. B. Morton might move to a key White House spot.

In the White House, the major survivor will be Chief of Staff Alexander M. Haig Jr., at least in the first months of the Ford administration. Ford's first appointment was a new press secretary, Jerald F. terHorst, Washington bureau chief of the Detroit News. He succeeds Ronald L. Ziegler, last of the original Nixon team.

Key Ford aides would likely move in soon, including his closest political adviser, Chief of Staff Robert Hartmann, and L. William Seidman, a management expert from Ford's home town of Grand Rapids.

leave the White House before the ceremony, heading home to California, his 28 years of public service ended by public and political pressure.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger was summoned back from Europe to administer to Ford the oath of office Nixon was accused of violating:

"I do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the office of the President of the United States, and will to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

The midterm inauguration was the climax to an eventful week in which the pressure on Nixon to resign, and the rumors that he would do so, built steadily.

Nixon's announcement on Monday that he had withheld key evidence about his early knowledge of Watergate on political grounds caused even his staunchest supporters to demand his impeachment or resignation.

Ford inherited the leadership of a nation that Nixon said desperately needs to heal the wounds of Watergate. Indeed, the outgoing president said he hoped his departure would speed that process.

"The leadership of America will be in good hands," said Nixon.

Nixon spoke on national television and radio from the Oval Office, surrounded by the trappings of the presidency he was surrendering after 2,027 days. The nation watched, too, a few minutes later when Ford spoke in the rain outside his suburban Alexandria, Va., home.

"I think the President of the United States has made one of the greatest personal sacrifices for the country and one of the finest personal decisions on behalf of all of us Americans by his decision to resign," Ford said.

His eyes filled with tears, the balding, broad-shouldered 61-year-old Ford promised "to work on the problems, serious ones, which we have at home, in the spirit of cooperation which I believe will be exhibited with the Congress and the new president."

Chief among those problems is the nation's economy, beset by inflation. Ford, moving before Nixon publicly disclosed he would resign, notified top administration economics advisers to meet with him on this inauguration day.

Ford promised an unchanged U.S. foreign policy, announcing that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger would head his Cabinet.

Ohio Lottery Opens With Large Sales

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Today was the first day Ohioans could buy state lottery tickets officially, but the interest around Marietta was in joining the action on the other side, the regional director there said.

Walter "Snuffy" Smith, in whose region sales began four days ahead of the formal start approved by the Ohio Lottery Commission, says that "now they're getting the hot to be agents."

Smith said he had 10 new applications Thursday and was telling would-be sales agents to send him preaddressed envelopes and proper postage, he didn't have time to do the typing.

He also said his dealers already had demanded additional tickets and were getting them today. He added he didn't know how many they actually had sold early but that there were one-half million distributed before today's additions.

He said the potential sales agents apparently didn't care much about the opportunity at first. "The lottery was too distant to them until something exciting happened," he said.

That something exciting was the local furor over the dealer who jumped the gun, he added.

Smith also said he has the state's smallest lottery district, with 475,000 residents. Then he noted its proximity to West Virginia, across the Ohio River from his town, and Kentucky a few miles away.

"They can jump in a boat and row across," he said, sputtering with laughter.

Thursday, the day after the commission switched the beginning of sales ahead from Monday, Aug. 12, was a hectic day in any commission office, according to those who were there.

"It's just overwhelming," a commission spokesman said at lottery headquarters in Cleveland.

"We've had sales in the North Canton-Marietta regions that have been going wild since Tuesday," he said. The agents "just went ahead and did it."

RICHARD M. NIXON

Many Questions Left Unanswered By Nixon's Speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was James McCord, one of the Watergate burglars, who predicted that before the scandal was over, "all the trees in the forest will fall."

The tallest fell Thursday night.

Richard Nixon, the first president in history to be driven from office by scandal, said he was leaving because "the Watergate matter" had eroded his support in Congress. He explained the erosion no further. Perhaps it was expecting too much of a departing president to acknowledge publicly that scarcely anyone in Congress believed him anymore.

It was a curious farewell in several ways. Once he had let it be known, through his daughter, that he would fight removal from office "down to the last vote to the Senate." At other times he has said, "I love the battle" of politics and the presidency.

Thursday night he said, "I would have preferred to carry through to the finish whatever the personal agony it would have involved ... but the interest of the nation must always come before any personal considerations."

He seemed to be saying he was giving up the agony in a higher cause. But then he also said he was giving up the fight "for personal vindication." "Therefore..." Here Richard Nixon paused and swallowed. It was the one tiny visible moment where he appeared to reveal emotion that needed to be controlled. Then: "I shall resign the presidency effective at noon tomorrow."

He was in complete control again, once again "the coolest man in the room," a description he has applied to himself at a crisis point.

There were a few expressions of "regret" and "deep sadness" at leaving office prematurely before he could reach his goals. But, generally, those remembering his "Checkers" speech 22 years ago and his "I am not a crook" statement nine months ago found the farewell curiously bland in content and delivery.

He did not protest his innocence. He did not admit any moral guilt. He did "regret deeply any injuries that may have been done."

To a people, to a nation? Richard Nixon did not say.

He did say "some of my judgments were wrong," but it was not an act of contrition so much as it was a passing reference to mistakes. Win some, lose some.

When he took office in 1969, Richard Nixon promised to "bring us together." Thursday night he admitted he had not. The outgoing President said the first essential of the administration of Gerald R. Ford "is to begin healing the wounds of this nation; to put the bitterness and the divisions of the recent past behind us."

Nixon said that by resigning he hoped to hasten the "healing which is so desperately needed in America." It was much the same reason Lyndon B. Johnson gave on March 31, 1968, in announcing he would not seek reelection.

Justice Powell Now Recovering

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. is expected to return to his Richmond, Va., home in about two weeks following surgery at the Mayo Clinic.

A spokesman at the Rochester, Minn., clinic, contacted by telephone from Washington on Thursday, said Powell was operated on on Wednesday for a nonmalignant enlargement of the prostate.

Powell, 66, was admitted on Monday, the spokesman said.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market drifted downward today, responding placidly to the departure of Richard Nixon from the White House and his succession by President Ford.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 7.12 at 777.77, and declines outpaced advances by a 3-2 margin in quiet trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said the traders who had bought in the rally of the first three days of the week amid anticipation of a change in the presidency were taking profits in an illustration of the Wall Street maxim "Buy on the rumor, sell on the news."

The Big Board volume leader was Marcor, up 1/4 at 27 1/2 in trading that included blocks of 65,000 and 20,000 shares at 27.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .31 at 78.86.

The only unusual aspect of the day on the NYSE was some scattered boing on the floor as the opening bell sounded. One trader said some members evidently felt the exchange should have delayed the opening in observance of the historic changeover in Washington.

However, Big Board chairman James J. Needham said, "This market should never close" as long as trading is orderly.

Nixon Vulnerable To Many Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard Nixon quits the presidency without immunity from prosecution, leaving him vulnerable to a host of criminal charges.

The lead role in bringing an indictment against Nixon after he leaves office would fall to special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski, who said Thursday night there has been no deal sparing Nixon prosecution in exchange for his resignation.

Congress could pass a resolution urging that no charges be brought against Nixon. Such a resolution is not binding by law; it only expresses the feelings of members of Congress.

Nixon's resignation may have squelched what little support there was for such a resolution.

The chief sponsor, Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., said Thursday night he would withdraw the resolution unless Nixon makes a "full confession" of his involvement in the Watergate and related scandals.

By resigning, Nixon apparently saved himself from impeachment by the House and trial in the Senate. Congress has the authority to proceed with impeachment even though Nixon no longer holds office, but House leaders said Thursday night there is no need to carry it through.

"The House may have to take some action, but the President having resigned, the proceedings will have to come to an end," Speaker Carl Albert said.

Nevertheless, Albert and Judiciary Committee members were moving toward a House vote on the committee report detailing the allegations against Nixon.

Gerald R. Ford, upon becoming president, is the only other person who could block the trial of his predecessor.

Ford gave no hint of his intentions. Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, R-Calif., said, "I know that Jerry Ford would never promise to pardon him as a condition for his resignation."

McCloskey predicted that Nixon "will be indicted very shortly" but said nothing about the basis for his forecast.

An agreement that Nixon would leave office as the price of immunity seemed a possible option in light of the bargain that led to Spiro T. Agnew's resignation as vice president. Agnew pleaded no contest to a single tax evasion charge and prosecutors agreed not to press other, more serious, charges.

Nixon's resignation strips him of the shield of office that once apparently blocked his indictment on charges of conspiracy and obstruction of justice.

neighbors and friends gathered on the lawn, he hailed Kissinger and said "he and I will be working together in the pursuit of peace in the future as we have achieved it in the past."

All other members of Nixon's cabinet are staying, too, along with such key White House aides as staff chief Alexander M. Haig Jr. — at least for a few months.

But Nixon's press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, is being succeeded by Gerald F. terHorst, Washington bureau chief of the Detroit News.

Even before Nixon's resignation announcement, Ford had launched the same type of broad vice presidential search that led to his own selection 10 months ago.

Former New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller heads an initial list of 12 vice presidential possibilities drawn up by Ford's staff. But Ford associates differ on Rockefeller's chances, and say the list of potential nominees is expected to grow before a final selection process.

Ray Of Hope Injected Into Cyprus Talks

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Heartened by an agreement on the drawing of cease-fire lines, Cyprus peace negotiators moved today to clear remaining military problems before turning to the political future of the island.

On Cyprus itself, stiff fighting erupted again Thursday between Turkish invaders and Greek Cypriot defenders. For the first time since the Turks began landing on July 20, Maj. Gen. Prem Chand, commander of the United Nations peacekeeping force, appealed in writing to both the Greek and Turkish commanders to observe the cease-fire.

Foreign ministers James Callaghan of Britain, Turan Guney of Turkey and George Mavros of Greece resumed their Geneva talks Thursday and adjourned after 2 1/2 hours to allow technical experts to draw up reports.

The reports will cover ceasefire lines, prisoner and hostage exchanges and the condition of Turkish-Cypriot enclaves, British sources said.

On Saturday, Greek and Turkish Cypriot representatives will be admitted to the talks, and the sources said Callaghan hopes to clear away military issues by then so the talks can turn to politics.

The agreement on cease-fire lines and buffer zones to separate the hostile forces was reported by a joint military commission of Greek, Turkish, British and U.N. officers on Cyprus.

Details of the agreement were not released.

Commission members were trapped at one point by a seven-hour battle between Turks and Greek Cypriots across the heavily fortified "Green Line" that divides the two communities in the capital, Nicosia.

A U.N. spokesman reported heavy tank and machine gun fire in the Kythria Forest northeast of Nicosia.

Participants in the Geneva talks agreed that President Nixon's resignation would not affect the negotiations. Americans have stayed in the background throughout the Cyprus crisis, and the State Department sent only an observer to Geneva.

Woman Cited In Two-Car Accident

Twenty-two-year-old Diana M. Tatman, 342 1/2 E. Mound St., was cited for passing within 100 feet of an intersection, by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy J. Phillip Brown, when she was involved in a two-car accident 2 a.m. Friday, on Route 22.

Linda K. Colburn, 33, Clarksburg, was driving east on Route 22 preparing to make a left turn onto Alkire Road when Mrs. Tatman began to pass.

The autos collided going off the road into a ditch.

Ross County Sheriff's Deputy Ron Nichols did not cite either driver in a two-car accident on Route 159, near Kingston, 8 a.m. Thursday, involving an off-duty Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy.

According to Nichols, James Fite, Circleville, was driving north on 159 and a car driven by Douglas Scott, 43, Chillicothe was driving south on 159, when the vehicles collided on a curve.

Both drivers were at fault, since both cars were left of center at the time of impact, with Scott apparently the causing factor, according to Nichols.

Both autos were totaled. Scott was taken to Ross County Medical Center for minor injuries.

Of all the words in the dictionary the one most aptly fitting the situation can only be ecstatic in describing the reaction of Sheryl Cox and our Amy when they were pronounced the first place junior team demonstration winners 4-H Home Economics division last Friday at the Pickaway County Fair.

For ten-year-old Sheryl, daughter of Anna Louise Young Cox and the late Robert Cox, it was her very first trophy and she proudly and happily proclaimed the word to one and all. It is a real joy to witness the uninhibited emotions youngsters so honestly show.

So, okay, I sort of end up with egg on my face and both feet in my mouth on the fairgrounds entrance, exit set-up after the Friday evening jam-up. On the other hand, if all the impatient motorists had followed the lay-out perhaps it would have gone over so much smoother. I do know we have many, many inconsiderate, rude folks behind the wheels of cars because I sat in my parked car for over an hour and watched the "shennagins" of several.

In a pouring rain a deputy was giving his all to direct traffic out of the grounds with some semblance of order and pattern but this was not enough for some and so they blasted loud and long on their horns and with a number of cars doing this at one time it caused quite a din and served no good purpose whatsoever. Had most of the drivers followed the exit arrows a great deal of the confusion could have been avoided plus the fact a lot of drivers "hogged" and therefore impeded an orderly flow of traffic, too.

When the rest of my family came to the car after the demo derby a very kind fellow permitted us to pull from our parking area and meld into the line and in no time we were on our way homeward. I only wish I knew who he was so he could be thanked because very, very few were being so courteous and it would have helped so much if they had been.

Ray Frazier of Angola, Ind. was the weekend guest of his dad, Mr. Arthur Frazier. On Sunday they were joined by Ray and Helen Frazier Shoemaker of Circleville and 91-year-old father Art prepared and cooked the Sunday dinner.

Pete and Pearl Cochenour, Jack and Patti Brayshaw and Grandma B (Agnes Brayshaw) were in New Brighton, Pa. last week having been called there by the untimely and heartbreaking death of sister-in-law and daughter-in-law Kathryn Brayshaw. Kathryn and her bereaved husband Roy had visited many times in our community. How we yearn for words to comfort them.

You readers recall Patrick Boch, the young lad injured in a motorcycle accident? Well, he has been transferred from Grant Hospital to Dodd Hall Room 4162, University Hospital, Columbus 43210. Send your card to the new address. I am told young Patrick looks forward to receiving the daily mail and is very grateful to those who have remembered him with cards and messages.

Keep up the good work, readers. If you have ever been hospitalized you well know how wonderful it is to be remembered and if you have never been hospitalized then first of all give a grateful thanks to God and next get a card in the mail to someone who is hospitalized and we hope one goes to Patrick.

It is good to see Una Higman busily about her daily chores after quite a while of not having her in the neighborhood. She had been visiting with daughter Maralyn and her spouse Jack Armentrout and the grandchildren Becky, Peggy and John at Fremont. Another daughter Myrna and her husband Harry Hosler and their two handsome sons of Circleville visited in Fremont on Thursday and mom returned to our town with them.

In our town last week were Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Roberts and son Doug of Mt. Bethel, Pa. (located in the Pocono Mountains). They were the house guests of Police Chief Ron Waugh and his helpmate Linda and young sons Andy and Ray.

Ron and Rodney are former service buddies and the families endeavor to get together annually for a spot of fishing, good conversation and many other mutual interests.

Vacationing Ron and Marilyn Bush, Mike and Tim have spent their time in a variety of ways. Somerset with Marilyn's parents Mr. and Mrs. "Doc"

Dupler; a day at King's Island which also included Ron's sister Diana Ecyke and two lovely lassies of Chillicothe; another day at West Liberty (Williamsport Sulphur Spring Festival business) and on Friday Ron, Marilyn and yours truly will head out for Ashley, Bucyrus and back to Columbus—again on Festival business. The closer it gets to Festival time (Sept. 11 through Sept. 14) the less there is apt to be a dull day or even a dull moment in many households in our village.

Chanced on Francis and Ruth Snyder at the Valley House last Thursday evening at Chillicothe where they were quietly celebrating Ruth's birthday. Ruth had a real surprise in store for her when at the conclusion of their meal she was presented a small cake complete with glowing candle. Evidently a very alert waitress had heard Ruth tell me it was her birthday and thus the little extra touch. Nice, huh?

Have you purchased your ticket for the summer Gospel Sing to be held at Westfall next Friday beginning at 7:30 p.m.? Locally, Ethel (Mrs. Charles) Galloway has tickets and of course any of the members of the sponsoring organization the Monroe Men's Club will gladly sell advance tickets and so will Winfough's at Five Points and Rowland's Grocery at Darbyville. Your attendance will serve a two-fold purpose—contribute to the treasury of the Men's Club which is noted for outstanding community involvement and contribute to the enrichment of your own enjoyment when you listen to the beautiful soul-stirring music. It is really fantastic!

A word to the wise is sufficient so here goes the word—Vicki Thompson has completed her driver's ed course and will shortly take her test for her driver's license, which means that once granted she will be out among us. Enuf said!

Happy congratulations to Connie Drummond, daughter of David and Marabel, who placed on the Ross County Fair Queen's court. Connie will be a senior at Westfall this year and is active in many extra-curricular functions. She also has the rather unique opportunity of belonging to both Pickaway County and Ross County 4-H groups since the Drummond farm and home is situated in both counties. Connie was sponsored by the Clarksburg Jolly Beef Feeders of which she is a member and has been for several years.

It is somewhat hectic in this household since Becki and Amy are trying to ready outgrown and discarded clothing for a "garage sale" on Friday and Saturday and old mom is trying to put things together for a "Whew, it's finally all been unpacked sale next weekend". Even Ripley of Believe It or Not would hardly believe that it has taken me nearly a year to unpack and sort through but then maybe if he understood that I have never been too swift he would go for it.

Be with you again next week, be the Lord willing (and Vicki T. doesn't kill me). Take care.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

If She'll Only Ask

DEAR ABBY: I am a senior in high school. My boyfriend goes to college out of town, so we have been writing to each other regularly.

My mom and I have a communication problem. I mean, I don't tell her a whole lot, although I really don't have all that much to hide. Well, I had a hunch my mother was going into my drawer and reading the letters I got from my boyfriend, so I did something that wasn't very nice. I wrote notes like, "Hi, Mom, what are you looking for?", and I stuck them into the envelopes with my boyfriend's letters.

I know she saw them because she has been very cold to me lately, but she can't very well say anything about these notes without admitting she was snooping.

Abby, I don't think I should have to hide my things or lock them up. I mean if a girl can't trust her own mother, who can she trust?

I would really like to have a better relationship with my mother, but I need to know how to get out of the doghouse first.

SORRY IN OHIO

DEAR SORRY: For openers you can quit writing "notes" in an attempt to trap and embarrass her. I do not condone snooping, but most mothers who snoop do so because they want to know more about what's going on in the lives of their children.

Apologize to your mother for the smart-alecky notes, and tell her you want to build a better relationship with her. Believe me, she will meet you halfway.

DEAR ABBY: What would you think if you had a relative (a very close one) who told you he was sorry that he couldn't offer you the hospitality of his apartment because he had only one bed, and then you accidentally discovered that the sofa in his living room folded out into a "hide-a-bed"?

MAD

DEAR MAD: I'd think that this relative didn't want the pleasure of my overnight company.

DEAR ABBY: I am German-born, but have lived in the U.S.A. for the last 24 years with my American husband. My mother still lives in Germany, as do my brother and sister. I keep in touch with them about once a month with letters. I saw them two years ago when I visited Germany.

Yesterday, I received a letter from a so-called friend of my sister's in Germany. (I met this lady only once when I visited Germany, and it is a mystery to me how she got my address.) She wrote, "I think you should know that your mother is being blind, and her general health is very, very bad. They say she hasn't got much longer to live. I told your sister to notify you of your mother's condition."

Water Awareness

Water systems are probably the utility most often taken for granted. Simply turn on the spigot and there it is. But before it comes out of the tap that water has done some traveling. Whatever its previous history, it goes through an extensive treatment process before it is served to the consumer.

But water treatment systems are not perfect. To be on the safe side, some critics say, more extensive water analysis is needed. Diseases attributed to waterborne viruses occur infrequently, but often enough that they still pose health problems.

Then there are additives which have not been proven harmful, but not entirely exonerated either. Industrial chemicals, pesticides, minerals and natural substances found in some locales all add to the content in varying degrees. While the combination may pass inspection at any given time, what is the long-range effect?

Demands upon water supplies continue to grow, creating a need for greater vigilance. It may no longer be sufficient to assume because water has gone through a treatment facility there is no reason to question its purity.

Thoughts That Take Flight

By JIM BISHOP

EN ROUTE TO SCOTLAND (KF-S)—To listen, to learn, to remember is my sole accomplishment. The trip, so far, has been worth the money. We have met Swiss, Frenchmen and Englishmen of consequence who have enlightened us, entertained us, and there is a stain of sadness in knowing that none of us will meet again.

This Trident will make it from London to Glasgow in 55 minutes, but there are a thousand years of restrained animosity between the English and the Scots. The French play at being a first-class power but even with nuclear bombs, France needs the security blanket of NATO to sleep well.

In two trips around the world and this, the sixth to Europe, I have never found a friend of America. Without Lend-Lease, the Soviet Union might not have survived World War II, but she offers less than 10 cents on the dollar of what she owes and says, "Take it or leave it."

Twenty-eight thousand feet below this window lie the lush, quilted farmlands of England. For a time, they fought the big war alone. If the word "victory" can be applied to one people, it is theirs. They won, and this little island lost its empire, its sons, its treasure and Britannia no longer rules a wave.

It may require 100 years for historians to see that the world, at this moment, is in glacial convulsion. The revolution is economic. Man trades his gold for oil.

These thoughts, written above fleecy frigates sailing slowly under full canvas, are not intended to be dismal. I do not believe that my country's future lies in isolating itself from its neighbors, but, if we cannot feed the starving of the world, why can't we confine ourselves to feeding our own and stop — just this once — trying to buy friendship?

My wife is looking over my shoulder. She shudders. "Why don't you tell your seven readers about the pate of thrush you had for lunch?" All right, I will: it was liverwurst with bones. If I must switch from the frivolity of world disaster to something of stunning importance, I will tell you I learned one French word: pamplemousse. It means grapefruit.

I will also impart a scoop: French color TV is far better than American. Their stations send out one-third more color dots than ours. Their idea of an exciting program is an hour of bicycle racing along country roads.

Once, they put on a hunting scene. It was a woodland idyll. In the distance, the telescopic lens picked up a mangy fox in tall grass. Fifteen well-fed Frenchmen lined up, armed with formidable shotguns. A dozen beagles on chains flapped their ears, yipped, jumped, tangled the chains and begged to be released to chase the tired fox.

They had to wait. The camera moved in on three uniformed men with gleaming hunting horns. They trumpeted, and the mutts tried to run away from the fox. Then, quite properly, the Frenchmen trod the grass, the dogs surrounded the fox and, when the animal held his paws up and surrendered, they shot him. He looked like a rabbit who had died in a moth factory.

In London, we watched the British Open. Every time Tony Jacklin fired a good shot into a bunker, the announcer murmured, "Oh, dear." British newspapers lack taste. One ran a story stating that when President Nixon emerges to the martial air of "Hail to the Chief," Americans chant "Hail to the Thief." I never heard it.

The Trident is descending. The bird trembles. The Scottish hills skim under the wing. I know that sluggish river below. It's the Clyde.

And I know that the John Brown shipyard is over there, where all those big cranes, like praying mantises, bend over empty shipways.

It was there that the fine ships were built: the Mauretania and Lusitania as far back as 1907; more recently, the Queen Mary and the Queen Elizabeth; the old Olympic and Titanic; the Berengaria and Aquitania.

They too are gone, gallant giants of a leisurely age. We are coming in for a landing and I look back at that huge, cold, empty shipyard and I dream of the thousands of begrimed Scots who crawled and crept over the huge hulls and fashioned vessels which had speed and pride and grace.

Somewhere along the way, we lost something. I do not long for the good old days because they weren't that good. But I wish we had held onto pride of craftsmanship and one other thing: consideration...

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Big banks and an outdated and inflexible Federal Reserve Board philosophy is ruining the American economy and "transforming us from a nation of investors into a nation of lenders and borrowers."

This summarizes one small aspect of John Wright's testimony this week to the House Banking and Currency Committee, and except for the accompaniment of a great amount of research, it probably sounded like an old refrain from a rigid mind.

The banks, he said, have interposed themselves "between the owners and users of capital... Causing the transformation of equity capital into debt, investors into lenders and businessmen into borrowers instead of partners."

The Federal Reserve, he said, threatens the traditional American free enterprise system by denying working capital to American business and by insisting that high interest and a no-growth economy are needed to fight inflation.

Interestingly, Wright isn't a Populist so much as a businessman. His investment management and advisory organization handles directly about $250 million of investments. It advises 17 New York Stock Exchange member firms. And most significantly, it advises about 500 banks and institutional investors.

Americans, Wright says, in effect, are taking it in the neck because of some irrational thinking on the part of the nation's leaders who, he says, are worsening the very problems they claim to battle.

In his prepared testimony, he said that in 1965 the bank prime lending rate was 4.53 per cent and the consumer price index rose 1.7 per cent for the year. The prime is now 12 per cent and so is the rate of price increases.

High interest rates today add to the cost of doing business, says Wright. They lead to higher prices. They add to everyone's cost of living. And they deliver the economy into the hands of the big banks.

High interest rates draw money from the equity markets, of course, and the latter are now almost comatose. Corporations cannot raise equity capital and so are forced to borrow from the banks.

Wright proposes an investment tax credit of $50 for every $1,000 in savings or investment growth, as an incentive for capital formation. And he would sharply restrict the rates on big certificates of deposits, which he feels indirectly leads to higher rates for loans.

And he would recast the Federal Reserve Board, which has "virtually destroyed our equity markets," so that it would be more responsive to the national economic and financial goals.

Federal Food Programs Costs Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government budget experts say federal food program costs will account for 68 per cent of total Agriculture Department spending this year, compared with 50 per cent in 1973-74.

The new figures are based on cost projections for such programs as food stamp operations and school lunch operations. In all, those are expected to cost $6.2 billion of USDA's total spending of $9.1 billion in the year ending next June 30.

Earlier, USDA experts had calculated food program spending would run about $5.9 billion and account for about 64 per cent of a USDA budget of $9.2 billion proposed by the Nixon administration.

The new USDA appropriations bill approved by Congress and now at the White House waiting for Nixon's signature, would mean higher spending for food programs while cutting total outlays slightly, one official said Wednesday.

During the past fiscal year ended June 30, food programs totaled about $4.9 billion half of overall USDA ending of $9.8 billion, according to revised estimates.

Food program spending has risen dramatically in recent years while costs of farm subsidies have come down, meaning a shift in how much USDA money is spent.

In fiscal 1972-73, for example, food program spending was $3.5 billion or 32 per cent of overall USDA costs of $10.9 billion. Farm payments that year were a record of nearly $4 billion.

But that has changed with a shift to all-out crop production for wheat, corn and some other key commodities. Higher market prices have meant sharp cuts in direct farm payments.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Whenever I get nervous or upset with my children I get a throbbing headache. I feel that my head will burst open. Could high blood pressure do this?

Mrs. G. V., Miss.

Dear Mrs. V.:

Yes, indeed it could. But there need be no speculation about it because of a blood pressure reading is probably the simplest and most readily accessible test.

This brings me to a message that all doctors want brought to the attention of people.

High blood pressure is a dangerous condition when untreated and neglected. There was a time when hypertension (high blood pressure) could be treated only with bed rest. Today, there are excellent drugs which can keep the blood pressure well within norms and treatment can continue while patients go along with their normal activities.

Many people have a strange fascination about blood pressure numbers. These numbers (readings) are meaningful only to doctors. They compare them with the previous readings, and thus gain insight into the value of the drugs they are prescribing.

There are two blood pressure numbers. The first, or higher one, is called the systolic blood pressure. This measures the pressure in the arteries at the time that the heart pumps blood into them.

The second, or lower number, is called the diastolic. This indicates the pressure in the blood vessels in between each beat of the heart. It is for this reason that one hears reference to their blood pressure as being for example, "120 over 80." In many instances, the lower, or diastolic, pressure is more significant than the higher one.

Numbers are always terrifying to people who do not understand their significance. One should not, therefore, compare one's own blood pressure numbers with those of another.

Health agencies are relentless in their drive to flush out of hiding people who have unrecognized high blood pressure. By bringing them out into the open and beginning intensive treatment with drugs, diet, and rest, heart disease statistics and mortality from stroke can be significantly minimized.

To reiterate: today high blood pressure in most instances is a controllable disorder. But it is only controllable if people are freed from their anxiety and seek the advice of their doctors.

Burns Calls For Creation Of Federal Jobs Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur F. Burns has urged creation of a public service jobs program involving up to 800,000 workers as a tool to curb rising unemployment.

Burns suggested Tuesday that the government hiring program be launched when unemployment hits 6 per cent. The jobless rate now is 5.3 per cent, but government and private economists expect it to jump to at least 6 per cent by year's end.

Burns estimated the cost of a new jobs program at $4 billion.

Testifying before the congressional Joint Economic Committee, Burns also called for tougher antitrust enforcement and a more powerful inflation monitoring agency than the one proposed by President Nixon.

He told the committee there is no quick way to cool spiraling inflation and predicted it will take at least two years "for the kind of inflation we have been experiencing to unwind."

The stock market, which has been depressed for more than a year and a half, will not make a significant improvement until there is "confidence that corporate profits will improve and interest rates will decline," Burns added.

Asked if impeachment proceedings against Nixon have hampered economic policy planning, Burns said, "I think economic matters are being attended to in the White House." But he added, "I'd like to see more energetic activity, yes."

Burns said he doubted that an anti-inflation agency proposed by Nixon could be effective unless it was empowered to suspend wage or price increases it considers inflationary.

He proposed that the government panel be authorized to hold up inflationary wage or price increases for up to 45 days while conducting hearings and trying to negotiate a possible cutback.

Judge Won't Uphold Rule

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A federal judge Wednesday declined to order Kent State University to register first and second-year students who want to live off campus.

To approve a preliminary injunction with that effect would be to decide a case protesting a university rule requiring freshmen and sophomores to live in dorms, ruled U.S. District Court Judge William K. Thomas.

The injunction had been sought by a student and Kent Interhall Council, a group representing about 4,600 dormitory residents on campus.

The students' suit contends the regulation stems from the university's need to pay off building bonds and places an unreasonable burden on students.

A school spokesman declined to comment on the reason for the rule.

Cannon was free on $5,000 bond.

He waived the reading of the indictment which was the result of a two-day grand jury investigation into the county welfare department.

A telephone number will appear on the television screen for local residents to call to make donations.

The 1974 "New Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon" has signed 122 celebrities of stage, screen, television and radio, to appear on the show, to benefit Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America.

"That's the largest number of stars we've ever lined up for the show this far ahead," Jerry Lewis said in this announcement. Lewis, National Chairman of MDA, predicted that "at least 150 stars" will appear during the Telethon's 21½ hours on the air.

Ford To Aid Ohio GOP In November

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Republicans, looking for any bright lining they can find, saw a possible rainbow in President Nixon's resignation Thursday night.

Although contending he thought it inappropriate to comment on the effects of Nixon's move at the time, Ohio Republican Chairman Kent B. McGough was optimistic about Ford's political involvement.

"Gerry Ford has always been a help to Republicans in Ohio," McGough said. "I see no reason that he won't continue to be."

Ford has made six trips into Ohio since becoming vice president. A seventh is scheduled later this month, when he is to speak at Ohio State University commencement exercises. Democrats, as well as Republicans, believed Ford's advancement to the Presidency would help GOP chances in November.

"There is only one way they can go and that is up," said Ohio Democratic Chairman William A. Lavelle.

Gov. John J. Gilligan said earlier he wouldn't want "six years of Vice President Ford" as President.

Gilligan, however, said Nixon's resignation marked the beginning of an era "in which each American will have a role in restoring faith in our system of government."

"It can't hurt them," said a Lavelle aide at Democratic headquarters. "After all he (Nixon) would have been their chief liability in any campaign."

Destructive Blaze Hits Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A three-alarm fire early today destroyed an aging five-story business building a half-block north of downtown Columbus' main intersection.

Flames leaped as much as a hundred feet in the air and were visible across much of Columbus.

Firemen said the blaze apparently began in the Hanover Shoe Store, then spread throughout the building, which also housed Dunhill Clothiers. The building was the site until about two years ago of Kuenning's Restaurant, a popular downtown eating spot.

Firemen watered down neighboring buildings in an effort to keep the fire from spreading.

Streets bordering the Statehouse were closed as equipment moved in to fight the fire. The fire was located about a half-block north of the Statehouse.

No cause has been determined and no injuries were reported.

Rain Falls On Plains

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Thundershowers brought relief by the bucketsful to some of the parched croplands of the Plains Thursday night and early today.

Five inches of rain fell on the town of Catherine in central Kansas during the night. Sioux Falls, S.D., and Mott, N.D., measured nearly 1½ inches in about 2½ hours, and Dodge City, Kan., had nearly 3 inches in a 24-hour period.

Other thundershowers were active in the eastern Ohio Valley and lower Mississippi Valley, and rainfall was scattered along the Atlantic Coast and northern and central Rockies.

In addition to heavy rains, large hail pounded Walnut in western Iowa, and wind damage was reported in northwestern North Dakota. Funnel clouds were sighted in southern Nebraska. Partly cloudy to cloudy skies were the rule over most of the nation with fair weather confined to the Plateau and the Pacific Northwest coast.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 92 at Needles, Calif., to 44 at Evanston, Wyo.

Nixon Heads For California

WASHINGTON (AP) — A tearful Richard M. Nixon performed the final acts of his devastated presidency today, bidding sorrowful farewell to his Cabinet and aides, telling them that only a man in the deepest valley can know "how magnificent it is to be on the highest mountain."

Then at 10:16 a.m., he flew off to San Clemente, Calif., in the "Spirit of 76," the presidential aircraft that had taken him to so many memorable events in his 5½ year presidency.

His wife, daughter Tricia and her husband Ed Cox were with them as they left for a home that is the Western White House no more. The younger daughter, Julie and her husband David Eisenhower stayed behind to help pack the family's belongings.

The Nixons had trod a red carpet from the White house to a waiting helicopter for the short hop to Andrews Air Force base and the presidential plane. The flight to California would take five hours.

One last time, as he stepped into the helicopter, the resigning President waved the twohanded V-for-victory sign he had flashed so many times before from hundreds of political platforms.

And at precisely 10 a.m. EDT, the helicopter rose into the misty Washington morning. His Cabinet and several hundred administration aides heard his East Room farewell, and saw him go.

His successor, Gerald R. Ford, watched the takeoff.

Nixon's last White House words: "And so we leave in high hopes, in good spirits and in deep humility and with very much gratefulness in our hearts. We come from many faiths, we pray perhaps to different gods but really the same God in a sense."

"But I want to say for each and every one of you — not only will we always be grateful to you, always you will be in our hearts and in our prayers. Thank you very much."

The Nixon aides, many of whom had wept as did their departing leader, stood in applause.

Nixon's farewell to those closest to him was in marked contrast to the solemn formality of his resignation address to the nation Thursday night. It was intensely personal and intensely emotional.

He spoke of his parents, saying his father was a great man though never a man of renown, that his mother was a saint who nursed two of his brothers and watched them die of tuberculosis.

He told of reading, on his last night in the White House, the words of young Theodore Roosevelt upon the death of a daughter.

"TR in his 20s thought the light had gone from his life forever, but he went

Auditor Distributes Criminal Subsidies

Ohio State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson announced the distribution of $133,800.97 in criminal costs subsidies to 54 county clerks of court, with Pickaway County receiving $159.20.

The state pays for the successful prosecution and imprisonment of indigent persons convicted of felony crimes under the criminal costs subsidy program.

on," Nixon said. " ... He was a man. And as I leave, let me say that's an example I think all of us should remember."

"We think sometimes when things happen that don't go the right way, we think that when you don't pass the bar exam the first time ... we think that when someone dear to us dies, we think that when we lose an election, we think that when we suffer a defeat that all is ended."

"We think as TR said that the light had left his life forever. Not true. It's only a beginning, always."

"The young must know it, the old must know it. It must always sustain us because the greatness comes not when things go always good for you, but the greatness comes when you're disappointed, when you take some knocks."

"Only when you've been in the deepest valley can you know how magnificent it is to be on the highest mountain," Nixon said.

Nixon said he departed proud of the people "who have stood by us and worked for us and served this country. We want you to be proud of what you have done."

"Always remember, others may hate you but those who hate you don't win unless you hate them — and then you destroy yourself."

Rotary Speaker Talks Of Electrical Energy

ROTARY SPEAKER—Thursday's speaker at the Rotary Club was Chuck Williamson, left, who spoke on the sources and production of energy. Williamson is the director of consumer services for the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company. He was presented to Rotarians by Howard Bobo, right, who is manager of the local office of the electric company.

Howard Bobo, manager of the local Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Company introduced Chuck Williamson as guest speaker to the Rotary Club Thursday. Williamson is director of consumer services for the electric company and gave visual demonstrations on communications at the weekly meeting of the club.

Several Rotarians assisted with Williamson's demonstrations by relaying what they had seen in a picture on to another member. The speaker also showed slides on energy, how it is produced and from what sources it comes.

He indicated that the rates would have to be increased in order to compensate for the tremendous outlay of capital needed to build the necessary plants and to meet with the regulations and standards set by the government controls such as the Environmental Protection Agency.

One interesting point brought out at the meeting was the huge amount of revenue which is lost each year by the Consolidated Edison Company in New York. The company rebates large sums annually to the local politicians. Another source of loss to the New York company is the failure of its customers to pay their bills. Under state law, the company cannot shut off the utility service in New York when a customer fails to pay his monthly bill.

The Rotary spotlight was pointed at Ed Grigg, plant superintendent at the General Electric Plant. Larry Varble described many of the wonderful accomplishments Grigg has been responsible for including the rejuvenation of the Boy Scout program.

He has worked on the Community Fund, Hospital Board, Red Cross, Chamber of Commerce, City Board of Education, and Pickaway-Ross Joint Vocational School Board.

He has also served as the chairman of the Pickaway Action Commission and is very active in the Presbyterian Church and its Sunday School program. Ed and his wife, Edith, have raised four sons and have two grandchildren.

Guests at the luncheon meeting held at the L-K Restaurant were Jack Sadler, Nelson Brochaw and Eldridge Parsons.

The final announcement of the meeting came from Bob Brehmer who told fellow Rotarians that George Hamrick and Bill Heiskell had prize winning success at the annual golf outing at Zanesville this year.

Soviets Feast On American Crises

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent
At a moment when the United States is knee-deep in domestic crisis over the presidency, the Soviet Union behaves like a hungry waif within reach of the cookie jar.
The temptation must be enormous to use this time of American difficulties to the best Soviet advantage in various key areas of East-West competition. The Russians did seem to try to use the Cyprus situation for political gain in the so-called nonaligned world. They did support the East German Communists in new harassment of West German traffic to Berlin. They are campaigning for a new international Communist meeting on an urgent basis, obviously to determine how best to exploit the multiplicity of Western woes.

But all that aside, the touchiest situation right now remains the Arab-Israeli struggle in a region of extreme strategic and economic importance to the Western world. Signs and portents in that respect might arouse some misgivings about Kremlin thinking. Many a diplomat may be haunted by the idea that although the Middle East is relatively quiet now, the fragile fabric of truce woven by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger could unravel while the Americans are deeply preoccupied at home.

There are some safety factors that militate against a repetition of last fall's Middle East explosion. First, neither side has yet emerged from the shock of the October Yom Kippur war. Israel cannot forget she was taken by surprise and that she suddenly found she wasn't all that invincible. The Arabs have been in an unjustified state of euphoria over the notion that they really have military wallop after all.
But Arab leaders aren't all that euphoric. They are aware that although the Arabs did demonstrate that they could fight, they were still driven back. Israel still was able to recover and to threaten Cairo in the West and Damascus in the East.
The world of reality still faces the Arabs, inhibiting a new all-out try until they are far more sure of themselves. Israel worries about the Russian buildup of Syria's arsenals, but Syria is unlikely to volunteer to go to war alone without Egypt, any more than Egypt would resume the war all alone.
Second, for Israel there is a safety factor in the presence in buffer zones along disengagement lines of the United Nations Emergency Force. That force can do nothing to stop any party from going to war again, but its presence means something special. If the Arabs were going to attack, they'd have to get rid of that force. If they did order it out, that would be a signal of their intentions so far as Israel was concerned. This time Israel wouldn't wait and debate as in October, but as in 1967 when the U.N. force was removed, would hit first and hit hard.

One thing that could happen, however, would be that the guerrilla operations again could get so far out of hand as to invite heavy Israeli retaliation and generate such turmoil as to make any settlement impossible. That in turn could erode the foundations of the disengagement agreements on the Syrian and Egyptian fronts.

Because of prospective benefits from detente with the United States and the West, the Soviet Union still is cautious, and seems to want to appear in the role of peace champion. But instability has suited Soviet policy purposes, and still does in the Middle East.

If Moscow really wanted to move peace ahead it would offer full re-establishment of diplomatic relations with Israel. That would recognize Israel's right to exist as a Jewish State and Israel would welcome the renewed tie if it signified genuine coexistence.

Instead, however, the Russians further agitate matters by their treatment of the PLO — the Palestine Liberation Organization. They have granted the PLO permission to establish a Moscow office, which the guerrilla organization hails as tantamount to an embassy, and they have recognized the PLO's claim to be the "sole representative" of Palestinians in the projected Geneva peace conference.

Something wonderful happened yesterday.

I was walking in Grandma's garden, feeling a great sadness that she would never again walk there with me. Her favorite flower, the creamy-blossomed yucca, stood out delicately against the blue sky, breaking my heart with its loveliness. A yellow bee trembled over it a moment, then settled on a pearly petal. Bright-hued blossoms waved in the gentle breeze, pond ripples sparkled in the sun, and for one golden instant, I felt her presence. A prayer she'd taught me years ago came to my lips, "Grant me, God, eyes of the Spirit to see, in the beauty of Your world, reflections of infinity."

I thought of how clearly Grandma had seen God's goodness. Her love of God and devotion to His Church had shone in everything she said and did.

Because of her devotion I too felt God's love all about me. I knew then and there that I would never be lonely again with the Church to sustain and guide me.

On Books And Activities At The Library

Imagine a run-away nine-year-old boy with a toy gun that shoots beautiful, luminous soap bubbles! It's the latest surprise plot from Paul Gallico titled "The Boy Who Invented The Bubble Gun."

Frederick Forsyth has another adventure novel. This time it's "The Dogs Of War"—the story of mercenaries in Africa.

"Articles Of Faith" by Ronald Harwood is another novel with an African setting. This one weaves a story of how the Republic of South Africa became what it is today.

In the last book of a trilogy by Tyler Whittle, Queen Victoria's life after the death of her beloved Albert is the background for "The Widow Of Windsor"—a new historical novel.

Dorothy Dunneth combines historical fact with fictional adventure in her new offering "The Ringed Castle". The plot journey's from 16th century Russia to England.

The famous fictional heroine, Angelique, is back. "Angelique and the Demon" is the new novel by Sergeanne Golon. She has a new challenge in the new world.

Robert Wilder gives readers a peek inside of a Hollywood movie empire run by 3 generations of the Bernand family. It's a novel titled "The Sound of Drums and Cymbals."

"Strawberries In The Sea" is a poignant novel from the pen of Elisabeth Ogilvie. It follows the experiences of a Maine girl as she makes the transition from the ugly duckling to swan.

For the readers who enjoy chills, suspense, spies and international intrigue, try some of these new titles; "The Turquoise Lament" by John MacDonald, "Only With A Bargepole" by J. Porter, Harry Harrison's "Queen Victoria's Revenge", "Death of a Schoolboy" by Hans Koning, "Snowball" by Allbeury, Joan Alexander's "One Sunny Day", "Six Days of the Condor" by J. Grady, "Nile Green" by David Jordan, "The Hell With Elaine" by Van Siller and "An Enquiry Into The Existence of Vampires" by Lovell.

New titles for the devotees of Science Fiction this week include: "I, Weapon" by Runyon, "Soul of the Robot" by Bayley, "Star Smashers of the Galaxy Rangers" by Harrison, Edmund Cooper's "The Slaves of Heaven" and "Continuum 2", an anthology.

If you like animals and enjoy reading biography, you'll delight in "Talking To Animals" by Barbara Woodhouse. In it, she tells how she communicates with animals on their own level.

Margaret Forster shows another side of Charles Edward Stuart in her biography of Bonnie Prince Charlie titled "The Rash Adventurer."

Two lovely picture books just off the press are "Miss Carter Came With Us" by the 73 year old grandmother, Helen Bradley and "Mark Twain's Mississippi" by Watkins. The first is a charming bouquet of pictures and gentle-mannered people while the other is a pictorial history of the great river with the colorful word-pictures of Twain.

In-depth readers have varied selection this week. "The Presidency Reappraised" edited by Tugwell and Cronin is a group of serious essays on the role of the presidency in today's society.

"Prophets With Honor" by Barth presents 6 of the great dissents and dissidents in the Supreme Court. It portrays them as men ahead of their time.

"A Dangerous Place" by Yeselson and Gaglione advances the theory that the UN is a peace-destroying tool as nations manipulate it for their own purposes.

Ronald Seth has compiled "Encyclopedia of Espionage". It's the stories of great and not so great spies in history arranged in handy reference form.

Coal Miners Back On Job

BELLAIRE, Ohio (AP) — Coal mining operations in Southeastern Ohio were expected to be back to normal today after a settlement between United Mine Workers and North American Coal Co.

John Guzek, president of UMW District 6, said Thursday he expected all workers back on the job by the midnight shift.

Negotiators for the UMW and North American announced Wednesday they had reached agreement on a labor grievance involving a company foreman at the Jense Mine at Amster-dam.

Reports that the foreman, Denzil Carpenter, was supervising workers at the mine triggered walkouts Aug. 1 at seven mines. The wildcat strike gradually grew to include about 4,600 miners at 18 sites.

The agreement provides that Carpenter will not supervise workers until the state Division of Mines rules on his certification, the company said.

The union said North American also agreed to reinstate all miners suspended as a result of the work stoppage without loss of pay.

NOTICE OF SALE OF BONDS

Sealed bids for the purchase of $200,000 bonds of the Village of Ashville, (herein referred to as the "Issuer") in the County of Pickaway, Ohio, will be received by the undersigned officer at his office in the Village Hall, 160 N. Long Street, Ashville, Ohio 43103, until twelve o'clock noon, Eastern Daylight Savings Time on the 16th day of September, 1974, at which time the bids will be opened and read publicly. Bids for the bonds, which were authorized by legislation enacted on July 1, 1974, shall be sealed and endorsed "Bid for Waterworks System Improvement Bonds", and each bid shall be made only for all or none of such bonds.

It is contemplated that the bond issuing authority will meet at seven o'clock p.m., on the 16th day of September, 1974, to consider the bids and make an award.

The bonds will be dated the first day of October, 1974, will be in the denomination of $5,000 each, and will draw interest payable semi-annually on the first days of June and December of each year, beginning June 1, 1975, at the rate of six and one-half per centum (6 1/2 per cent) per annum. Anyone desiring to do so may present a bid for said bonds based upon their bearing a different single rate of interest, but not in excess of eight per centum (8 per cent) per annum, provided that where a fractional interest rate is bid, such fraction shall be one-eighth of one per cent or a multiple thereof. Split rate bids and bids with supplemental coupons will not be considered.

The bonds mature as follows: $10,000 on December 1 of the years from 1975 to 1994, inclusive.

The bonds are issued for the purpose of paying costs of improving and enlarging the waterworks system of the Village by constructing water treatment and storage facilities together with water lines and all necessary appurtenances.

The bonds are payable, without deduction for the services of the Issuer's paying agent, at the office of The Ashville Bank, Ashville, Ohio, and unless paid from other sources, are payable from limited taxes.

The proceedings for this issue have been taken under the supervision of Squire, Sanders & Dempsey, whose approving opinion will be furnished without cost to the successful bidder and will be printed on the bonds. The Issuer will pay the cost of printing the bonds. A complete transcript of proceedings will be furnished by the Issuer together with a certificate showing no litigation pending or threatened at the time of the delivery to enjoy delivery or to contest the validity of the bonds or the power to issue them or the levy or collection of taxes for their payment.

CUSIP numbers will be printed on the bonds if available and requested by the successful bidder. Any delay, error or omission with respect thereto shall not constitute cause for the successful bidder to refuse to accept delivery of and pay for the bonds. Any CUSIP Service Bureau charge for the assignment of the numbers shall be the responsibility of the successful bidder.

The bids will promptly be considered, and the bonds will be sold to the highest bidder offering the lowest interest rate at not less than par and accrued interest. The lowest interest rate will be determined by calculating the total interest to stated maturity at the rate bid and deducting therefrom any premium bid. If each of two or more bids is the highest bid offering the lowest interest rate, the bonds will be awarded on such one of the highest bids as is chosen by lot. All bids must be accompanied by cash, bank cashier's or official's check or certified check payable to the Issuer, or any combination thereof, aggregating one per cent of the par amount of the bonds, upon the condition that, if the bid is accepted, the bidder will receive and pay for the bonds in accordance with the terms and provisions of this notice. No bank bidding for the bonds shall file its own cashier's or official's check, nor a check certified by it. Such security shall be held by the Issuer unused pending delivery of the bonds and forfeited as full liquidated damages in the event of default by the successful bidder.

In the event that, prior to their delivery, the interest on the bonds should by act of Congress or otherwise become subject to Federal income taxes, or any act of Congress should provide that the interest income on the bonds shall be taxable at a future date for Federal income tax purposes, whether directly or indirectly, the successful bidder may refuse to accept delivery and in such event his bid security shall be returned without interest.

The bonds shall be delivered for payment within the State of Ohio to the successful bidder or to a bank designated by the successful bidder without charge. If delivered at a place outside of the State of Ohio, the successful bidder shall pay the expense of delivery at that place. The expense of delivery within the State of Ohio shall not be considered in determining the highest bidder.

Before making tender of the bonds at the place of delivery, the Issuer shall give written notice to the successful bidder not later than the fifth business day before the proposed tender, of the fact that the bonds, transcript, no-litigation certificate and approving opinion will be available for delivery and giving the date and hour for the tender at the place of delivery, provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall prevent the making of a mutually agreeable arrangement for the delivery of the bonds either at the place fixed for delivery or elsewhere.

If such notice has not been given by the Issuer or waived by the successful bidder and the bonds, transcript, no-litigation certificate and approving opinion are not available for delivery to the successful bidder at such place of delivery on or before 12:00 o'clock noon of the 30th calendar day after the day fixed for the receipt of bids, and the successful bidder shall not be in default of any of his obligations, he shall have the right thereafter, and so long as no such tender by the Issuer shall yet have been made, to cancel the contract of purchase. Any such right shall be exercised by delivering written notice of such cancellation to the undersigned or to the office of the undersigned during business hours. Such bidder shall thereupon be entitled to the return of the deposit which accompanied his bid and it shall be returned to him immediately.

The right is reserved to reject bids.

Willie's Dillies

By A BENCHWARMER

Parents are encouraged to send ice water to football practice with their sons if it's hot and humid by Dr. Robert J. Murphy, head team physician of the Ohio State Buckeyes.

Dr. Murphy said some coaches and trainers still withhold water from players on hot days, despite intensive educational programs which stress prevention of heat illness.

He asked parents to send ice water in a thermos with their sons on very hot days if there is any doubt as to whether an adequate water supply will be available.

In the United States, an average of four football players have died each year over the past 10 years from heat illness.

Don't forget the City National Buckeye Tennis Championships Aug. 13 through 19 at Buckeye Boys Ranch, Grove City. Top pros will be competing for prizes on real tennis courts, that, according to reports, actually have cloth nets.

The tennis courts at Ted Lewis Park haven't been nearly as crowded for the past couple of weeks, at least for night-time play. The reason? A bulb has burnt out in one of the overhead light quadrants. Otherwise it's the same old hassel trying to play American's number one participation sport.

FEARLESS FORECASTS—Sam Snead will have them talking in the PGA championships; Carol Mann will win in England; Willie will set the national street-walking championship.

Until next time, have a nice day, be a good sport.

Cleveland Players Join NFL Strike

HIRAM, Ohio (AP) — Thirteen Cleveland Browns players changed their minds and walked out of training camp here Thursday, giving solid support to the National Football League Players Association job action.

The players association went on strike on July 1st seeking better economic terms and more freedom in their dealings with the NFL owners. All the Browns' veterans remained out of camp during the first week of the strike, leaving only the rookies here for the two-day workouts.

Slowly, the marginally secure veterans started floating into camp, stating that their concern for their personal success was uppermost in their minds.

A total of 17 veterans, 15 of them former Browns, had crossed the picket line, bringing the total number of Brown players working out in camp to 50.

Before Thursday morning's workout the veterans asked for a meeting with Coach Nick Skorich. They told him they wanted to meet with the striking veterans and that they would be

Feeney To Appoint Panel To Eye Baseball Expansion

NEW YORK (AP) — "We don't want to rush into expansion," said National League President Chub Feeney, "but we want to be ready."

As the first step toward getting ready, Feeney announced Thursday at the conclusion of baseball's summer meetings that he had been instructed by the league to appoint a committee to prepare an expansion plan for the league's study in time for the winter meetings at New Orleans in early December.

Reportedly, expansion will take place in time for the 1976 season, with New Orleans, Seattle, Toronto and Washington, D.C. being admitted — the first two cities into the American League and the other two areas into the National League.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie

Miamisburg, Portsmouth Square Off

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP)—Miamisburg Coach John Wantz prayed for rain today in hopes of stalling his team's American Legion baseball title game with giant-killer Portsmouth.

Bill Newman's Portsmouth boys, undefeated and rested from an idle day, were raring to get it over.

Miamisburg is a one-time loser in the double-elimination program and victory this morning would put the title on an afternoon rematch of the teams.

Miamisburg knocked off Cincinnati Budde, 10-7, and Lancaster, 10-5, in a gruelling 18 innings during a muggy rainy Thursday afternoon.

"Our kids are pretty tired after playing two games," Wantz said. "Our big hope is for rain Friday so we can rest one day."

Wantz' players won the title in 1970 and have been bridesmaids six times in his nine trips to the state tournament.

Portsmouth hasn't won a title in 34 years and their defeated status gave the players confidence. Newman planned to start "our ace, Dave Bush," on the mound.

Phillies Gaining On St. Louis

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Manager Danny Ozark of the Philadelphia Phillies has the National League East championship race all figured out.

The Phillies moved to within one-half game of first place St. Louis Thursday night, nipping Chicago 2-1 for their third straight victory over the Cubs. Afterwards, Ozark analyzed his club's situation.

"All we have to do is what we did today, yesterday and the day before," said Ozark.

And what would that be, Danny? "Win," he said. "Forget about the other guys. Just keep winning. Eventually, we'll get to where we're supposed to be."

That seems to be exactly the strategy being employed by the hard-charging Pittsburgh Pirates, who moved to within 3½ games of the top by defeating the New York Mets 4-3.

Elsewhere in the NL Thursday, Montreal trimmed St. Louis 3-2 in 13 innings and Atlanta shut out Houston 1-0. San Francisco, San Diego, Los Angeles and Cincinnati did not play.

Philadelphia's victory was the fourth straight and fifth in six games for the second place Phillies, who kept the pressure on front-running St. Louis. It was not, however, easily accomplished.

Ron Schueler of the Phillies and Chicago's Bill Bonham were tied at 1-1 in the seventh inning when Mike Anderson walked, stole second and reached third on a wild pitch. Then with two out, Dave Cash bounced a grounder up the middle that hit the seam of the artificial infield and skipped past shortstop Don Kessinger for the winning hit.

Pirates 4, Mets 3

Richie Zisk's ninth inning home run gave Pittsburgh its victory over New York and completed a three-game sweep for the Pirates, who've won four straight.

Zisk connected against Jon Matlack for his 12th homer of the season and made a winner of Jerry Reuss, who pitched a six-hitter.

The Pirates come from behind, wiping out an early 3-0 Met lead by scoring three runs in the fourth inning.

Expos 3, Cardinals 2

The Cardinals and Expos struggled into the 13th inning before Hal Breeden's basesloaded, two-out, pinch single broke it up and gave Montreal the victory.

Bob Bailey opened the Expos' 13th with a single and moved up on a sacrifice. Walks to Ron Woods and Barry Foote sandwiched around a strikeout, loaded the bases and set the stage for Breeden's winning hit.

Braves 1, Astros 0

The best pitching job of the night went to Atlanta's Ron Reed, who shut out Houston on three hits.

Reed outduelled the Astros' Dave Roberts, who surrendered the game's only run in the sixth inning when Marty Perez and Darrell Evans hit consecutive doubles to open the inning.

Reading Teenager Holds Small Lead

OXFORD, Ohio (AP)—Teenager Darrell Pace took a narrow 32-point margin into the final day of the National Archery Tournament today in quest of a second straight men's title.

The 17-year-old Reading, Ohio, youth was leading runnerup Richard McKinney of Muncie, Ind., 2,150 to 2,118. Douglas Brothers of Sharonville, Ohio, was third at 2,092 and Victor Berger of Springfield, Ohio, fourth with 2,042.

Snead, Nicklaus 1 Off PGA Pace

CLEMMONS, N.C. (AP) — How many shots can a tournament golfer hit in anger before the reservoir runs dry?

"There's a limit," Sam Snead said 10 years ago. "A man has only so many tournaments and so many shots in his system. Jack Nicklaus started so young. He will burn himself out before he's 30."

This prediction came home to roost for the 62-year-old hillbilly wonder today as Snead and the great Nicklaus found themselves tied at 69, just one stroke off the pace going into the second round of the 56th PGA Golf Championship.

Nicklaus not only has not burned himself out but has amassed 14 major titles — an all-time record, and at 34 appears only to be getting his second wind in the game.

And old Sam himself is a living contradiction of his own thesis — still a masterful shotmaker and a PGA title threat after 84 tour victories and 40 years on the tough professional circuit.

"I guess it all depends on whether you can keep on liking the game," Snead acknowledged embarrassedly. "I'm still playing because I keep at it. I love the game. You've got to say the same for Jack."

The sweet-swinging veteran out of Hot Springs, Va., and the brute strong Nicklaus were the key personalities as a logjam emerged from the opening round of the pros' private house party with three men tied at two-under-par 68, Snead and Nicklaus bunched with four others at 69 and 10 bracketed at even par 70 — only three shots blanketing 19 competitors.

The knee-deep rough and rain-soaked greens of the 7,050-yard-Tanglewood course could scatter the traffic snarl today.

But Nicklaus' stock as a probable repeater soared after the opening round, which saw South Africa's Gary Player stumble to a 73 with a double bogey on the finishing hole.

The tournament leaders, at 68, are hefty Ray Floyd of Miami, who skipped four of the last seven weeks on the tour because of his wife's pregnancy; caustic Hubert Green of Birmingham, Ala., and star-gazer John Schlee, who is sure his destiny is determined by the signs of the Zodiac. He is a Gemini.

Hobnobbing with Snead and Nicklaus, one shot back at 69, are Bobby Cole of South Africa, Tom Watson, Leonard Thompson and rookie Eddie Pearce, the last a native of Tampa, Fla., who played under an Arnold Palmer scholarship at neighboring Wake Forest College.

Rudi's Bat Rocks Rangers

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Joe Rudi knocked in five runs with two singles, a double and a home run Thursday night to lead the Oakland A's to a 10-2 rout of the Texas Rangers and embellish his flashy offensive figures.

"Baseball people know he's a solid player, although I've heard he's underrated," said Oakland Manager Alvin Dark.

"It doesn't worry me about the lack of publicity," said Rudi, who is hitting .310 with 72 RBI and 13 home runs.

In the other American League games, the Milwaukee Brewers stopped the Boston Red Sox 5-3; the California Angels stopped the Chicago White Sox 6-4; the Detroit Tigers nipped the Cleveland Indians 4-3 and the Minnesota Twins beat the Kansas City Royals 3-2 in 14 innings.

Jesus Alou also had a good night for the A's. He opened the game with a first-pitch home run and added two singles, driving in two other runs. The homer was Alou's first of the season.

Jim "Catfish" Hunter breezed to his 16th victory against nine losses, scattering nine hits.

The A's bombarded young David Clyde with an eight hit attack in the four innings the young lefty lasted. Clyde is now 3-8.

Brewers 5, Red Sox 3

Don Money's double keyed a four-run third inning as Milwaukee whipped Boston to snap a string of six straight complete-game victories by Luis Tiant, 17-8.

The Brewers had lost eight of their past nine starts, including three to the Red Sox.

Angels 6, White Sox 4

Doug Howard singled to drive in the tying run, then scored on Ellie Rodriguez' single in a three-run eighth inning that carried California past Chicago.

Tigers 4, Indians 3

Jim Nettles singled home one run and two more runs scored on consecutive errors by pitcher Tom Buskey and first baseman Tom McCraw as Detroit rallied in the ninth inning to beat Cleveland.

Twins 3, Royals 2

Tony Oliva drove in a run with a sacrifice fly in the 14th inning to lead Minnesota over Kansas City. Rod Carew opened the 14th with a single and moved to third on a one-out base hit by Larry Hisle before scoring on Oliva's sacrifice fly off relief pitcher Joe Hoerner.

Big 33 Game Set Tonight In Hershey

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — Pennsylvania and Ohio high school allstars clash Saturday night in the 17th annual Big 33 football contest at Hershey Stadium.

This will be the third game between the two states. Pennsylvania won last year 21-19 and triumphed 27-22 in 1972.

Prior to the Ohio series, the Pennsylvania stars played a national allstar team, Texas allstars and for several years split into east and west Pennsylvania squads.

The game has included two future Heisman trophy winners, Terry Baker of Oregon and John Cappelletti of Penn State.

Last year's star running back for Pennsylvania, Tony Dorsett, became one of the nation's top running backs in his freshman year at Pitt.

Ohio is virtually certain of its starting lineup, while Pennsylvania coaches are having trouble selecting their starting offense.

The Ohioans will go with ends Bob Sammartino of Youngstown Mooney and Ken Bush, Canton McKinley; tackles Mike Pawlowicz, Oregon Clay and Jim Thomas, Akron St. Vincent; guards Garth Cox, Washington Court House and Lee Geiselman, Canton McKinley; and center Doug Porter, Youngstown Ursuline.

Mark Rohaley of Salem West Branch will start at quarterback, while Roger Andrachik, Cleveland St. Ignatius, Maurice Harvey, Cincinnati Princeton and Jeff Logan, North Canton Hoover, will be the running backs.

For Pennsylvania, head Coach Jim Williams of State College listed these possibilities for offensive positions:

Ends — Randy Holloway, Sharon; John Seftor, State College; Earl Brown, Middletown; Mick Shuler, East Pennsboro.

Tackles — Jerry Katic, Penn Hills; Dan Zelazy, Plum; Paul Renaud, Erie McDowell.

Guards — Brian Beswick, Delhaas; Carmen Frangiosa, Plymouth Whitemarsh; Clay Singletary, State College.

Centers — Steve Nauta, Plymouth Whitemarsh.

Quarterback — Joe Montana, Ringgold; Ed Smith, Pittsburgh Central Catholic; Dan Kendra, Allentown Central Catholic.

Halfbacks — Jim Cefalo, Pittston; Richard Fisher, Norristown; Steve Geise, Lock Haven; Ken Diminick, Mount Carmel.

Fullback — Russ Matt, Jeannette; Fred Glasgow, Northern Bedford.

Two Beat Par

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Only two golfers beat par in each of the four rounds of the 1974 Masters. They were winner Gary Player of South Africa and Tom Weiskopf of Columbus, Ohio.

Player started out with a pair of 71s then shot 66 and 70 for his 278 total and a two-stroke victory. Weiskopf beat par by one shot the first day.

Bob Purkey Makes Reds' Hall Of Fame

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Pitcher Bob Purkey, whose 23-5 record in 1962 stands as the best mark by a 20-game winner in the Cincinnati Reds history, will become the 38th addition to the club's Hall of Fame.

He will be inducted next week during the Cincinnati-Pittsburgh series at Riverfront Stadium.

Your Horoscope Television Schedule

The Circleville Herald, Friday August 9, 1974

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Give careful thought before making decisions. Those you make can have far-reaching effects. Don't let the idea of immediate gain supersede future potentials.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): A spirited day in part, taxing during some moments. But then, Taurians know how to benefit by advantages and hurdle the obstacles — often in the most unexpected ways.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): More than a few advantages for you who look, and look again, and take small ones if they come first — not waiting always for big ones.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): A few delays likely. Also, your powers or authority may be challenged. Here is where your quick thinking, acumen and general good judgment will be needed.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): You don't need to look afar for best returns. They will come from within your immediate surroundings and, perhaps, through some "unlikely" persons. A good day!

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Mixed influences. Be careful not to speak out of turn, and don't press too forcibly for what you want when a few well-chosen words will do the trick.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23):

Direct action can be effective — If you have accurate information. Otherwise, take the detour that means, safety, a reduced speed to prevent mishap.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): Sudden changes of plan or unconventional action could get you into difficulties if you are not careful. Lean toward the practical rather than the theoretical.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Expand in undertakings going well, setting a better pace for speedier results. Stress your fine organizational ability.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): If you have a tight schedule, it will be especially important to remain calm. And DO appraise situations carefully before acting. Business matters need extra vigilance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Step up activities to meet competition that is working overtime. The extra try will be worth the effort.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Some changing conditions, new trends indicated. You may not like them all immediately, but many are better than they appear at a glance. Study everything carefully.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with many fine traits which can lead to a most successful life — notably, a magnetic personality, outstanding integrity, sound sense and the ability to put good ideas over the top.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon, who in 1952 salvaged his then-young political career through national radio and TV, has ended it the same way before an American viewing audience NBC estimated would total 130 million.

And the major TV networks, which junked all their Thursday night programs to air the historic story of his resignation, today resumed their live coverage of the somber transfer of power from Nixon to Vice President Gerald R. Ford.

CBS, NBC and ABC all said they were televising live coverage today and tonight of major events.

Nixon's speech was carried live by the nearly 650 TV stations and 2,700 radio stations comprising the three networks, public broadcasting and the Mutual Broadcasting System.

On Sept. 23, 1952, when he made his famous "Checkers" speech, only NBC televised the 30-minute address — seen by an estimated 50 million viewers. CBS and Mutual aired it on radio.

His Thursday night speech climaxed a frenzied day for all broadcasters, a day punctuated by some 20 midday or afternoon bulletins and updates that persistently jabbed into network game shows and soap operas.

Margie Downs, Edith McJunkin and Betty McJunkin were hostesses for the August meeting of the United Methodist Women which met at the church on Wednesday afternoon.

The president, Lucia Spangler, used "The Road to Happiness" as the topic for devotions. The group sang "Faith of our Fathers" and Ella Mae Jenkins read the 13th chapter of Corinthians I. Lucia Spangler read about "Faith", Betty McJunkin about "Hope" and Roanne Spung about "Love". The Lord's Prayer was prayed in unison and the devotions closed with the singing of "When Love Shines In".

The program consisted of readings by Bertha O'Hara, Pauline Pearce, Edith McJunkin and Betty McJunkin.

Refreshments were served to 19 members and three guests at tables decorated in a blue and white color scheme.

Monday evening supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Ash and sons were Mr. and Mrs. Harold West, Jill and Letha, Aurora, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hunt, Bradenton, Fla.; Mrs. Betty Ash and Jane of Rockbridge; and Mrs. Merle Arledge.

Farm-To-Market Roads Deficient

WASHINGTON (AP)—One mile of country road in every five and one bridge in every six are rated "critically deficient" by the Federal Highway Administration, says Donald S. Knight, executive director of the Road Information Program.

Farmers must truck their goods to market over 600,000 miles of rough, rutted roads and across 80,000 aging, narrow bridges, Knight says. Neglect of country roads and bridges inflates food prices at the consumer level, he points out.

VINCENNES, Ind. (AP)—It's a fine way to give thanks for a free meal.

Thieves who broke into the Lincoln High School and took a small amount of cash from an office and two pencil machines stopped in a home economics room long enough to fix themselves breakfast.

"They didn't even wash their dirty dishes," a disgruntled school official complained.

Nixon's Career: A Chronicle Of Politics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Once hailed as a political miracle worker, Richard M. Nixon has seen his election triumphs reduced to ashes, leaving many Americans wondering if he really did have that sure touch for politics.

How could a smart politician permit the Watergate burglary, which seemed safely consigned as a footnote to history in early 1973, to mushroom into the most shattering disaster ever to overtake an American president?

Some observers questioned Nixon's credentials as a master politician even before Watergate.

Take the big "Nixon miracle" of 1968 when the onetime vice president captured the highest office just six years after seemingly renouncing all political ambition with the emotional declaration, "You won't have Nixon to kick around any more because, gentlemen, this is my last press conference."

He had, of course, just lost a race for governor of California and, in anger and frustration, pronounced his own political obituary — or so it seemed at the time.

The 1968 Nixon comeback indeed had its dramatic elements. But his campaign that year, against a Democratic opponent hobbled by close association with an unpopular Lyndon B. Johnson, hardly offered proof that winner Nixon was a politician with a sure touch.

In late September, with the campaign well under way, the Gallup Poll gave Nixon a 15-point edge over Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey. A landslide appeared in the making.

Nixon held a news conference at which he outlined a careful strategy to court the votes of key states and insure that his campaign "peaked" — a word Nixon has used often — precisely on election day.

It didn't happen that way. A cautious Nixon frittered away his enormous advantage as the campaign progressed. Election day found him the winner by less than 500,000 votes — an advantage measured as a fraction of one per cent of the 73 million ballots cast.

Many Humphrey partisans contended their man would have won had the campaign continued for another week with Nixon sticking to his play-it-safe strategy.

Similarly, Nixon appeared to toss away an excellent opportunity to win the presidency over John F. Kennedy in 1960. As the incumbent Republican vice president for eight years, Nixon came closer to being a household name and, at the start of the campaign, enjoyed a 53-47 Gallup Poll edge over Kennedy.

Perhaps due in large measure to a cocky but unwise decision to join the lesser-known Kennedy in a series of broadcast debates watched by an estimated 85 million Americans, Nixon saw his safe advantage erode until his challenger emerged the winner in the closest presidential election in 76 years.

Even as President, and quite apart from Watergate horrors, Nixon's political acumen was not above challenge despite his easy 1972 re-election by a historic margin.

Try as Nixon did, he never was able to generate public fervor for a broad package of domestic initiatives he variously labeled The New Federalism and The Second American Revolution.

While voters greeted most of his domestic legislation with a ho-hum attitude, aides said in Nixon's defense that such innovative concepts have no impact on individual voters until they are put in place.

Nixon had better luck in staking out positions on emotional issues that appealed to segments of his core constituency — opposition to busing to achieve racial integration and support for federal aid to parochial schools.

In the foreign affairs area, Nixon influenced voters in a way he couldn't manage in domestic policy. He showed finesse, and perhaps a good sense of timing, in working with Henry A. Kissinger to promote rapprochement with mainland China and detente with the Soviet Union — moves that would have aroused intense opposition a few years earlier.

Nixon brought to the White House a long-established reputation as a hard-nosed infighter from past campaigns. However, except for a brief and ineffectual fling in the 1970 off-year elections, he largely eschewed the harsh rhetoric of the past.

Tough campaign tactics — some critics called them dirty tricks — marked the early Nixon on the stump. He played so rough that the late Harry S. Truman threatened in the 1950s to punch him on sight. Nixon's tongue then was so barbed that Sam Rayburn, the late Democratic House speaker, once exploded, "So far as we are concerned, his name is mud."

Bond Sales Announced

K. Fosnaugh, Pickaway County Volunteer Savings Bonds Chairman, reported June sales of Savings Bonds in the County were $30,776. The County achieved 48.6 per cent of its annual sales goal June 30.

Controversy was the hallmark of campaigns that brought a youthful Nixon to successive seats in the House and Senate.

A Navy veteran returned from the South Pacific, lawyer Nixon entered politics in 1946 by invitation.

Republican neighbors in Whittier, Calif., were seeking a candidate to challenge Jerry Voorhis, a 10-year House veteran. Nixon's name was suggested and he flew home for a job interview. He got the assignment, not a particularly enviable one since Voorhis was well entrenched and seemed popular with Republicans as well as Democrats.

The campaign transformed Nixon into a controversial political figure — and a winner. He won by a surprising 65,586 votes to 49,994.

How he won is a question still debated. The Nixon campaign focused on a claim, denied by Voorhis, that the Democrat was the annointed choice of the CIO (Congress of Industrial Organizations) Political Action Committee and, more important, that the PAC was a tool of communism. Voorhis was forced to fight a defensive battle all the way, never more so than when Nixon faced him in a series of five debates.

Voorhis, known to be anti-Communist, later described Nixon as "quite a ruthless opponent." The Republican challenger argued that "our campaign was a very honest debate on the issues."

Nixon easily won re-election in 1948, with the nomination of both parties.

Elevated to national prominence by his successful pursuit of Alger Hiss, former State Department official who denied having links to a Communist spy ring but ultimately was convicted of perjury, Nixon decided to try for the Senate in 1950.

His opponent was a liberal Democrat, Rep. Helen Gahagan Douglas. Nixon linked her House voting record with that of then-Rep. Vito Marcantonio of New York, well known for slavishly following the Communist party line. Nixon won with better than 59 per cent of the vote, again accused of unfair campaign tactics.

The young Californian had served only 18 months in the Senate when a political amateur, Dwight D. Eisenhower, chose him as his GOP running mate in the 1952 campaign.

The ticket seemed unbeatable but was rudely jolted when it was disclosed that a group of California businessmen had contributed $18,235 to a fund to help Nixon meet the expenses of his Senate office. Some Republican leaders urged that the vice presidential candidate be dumped from the ticket at once. Eisenhower hesitated.

The crisis reached a climax when Nixon, deciding to make a fight of it, went on national television to defend himself with his famous "Checkers speech," so-called because of a reference he made to the family's cocker spaniel.

"Not one penny of the $18,000 or any money of that type went for my personal use," he declared.

It was an emotional, carefully staged performance, and it worked.

"You're my boy," said a relieved Eisenhower and, at 39, Nixon became the youngest vice president in 96 years.

Vice President Nixon held some public attention during Eisenhower's two terms by globe-trotting on the President's behalf and unlimbering his oratory on behalf of GOP candidates in off-year elections.

He remained a figure of controversy. Harold Stassen mounted a "dump Nixon" drive as the 1956 Republican convention approached and, for a time, Eisenhower seemed uncertain whether to line up with Stassen or support his vice president. In the end Nixon was renominated and kept his office for four more years.

Defeated for the presidency by Kennedy in 1960 by one-tenth of one per cent of the popular vote, Nixon returned to California to practice law and ponder his political future.

Deciding to sit out the 1964 campaign on the assumption that Kennedy would again be the Democratic nominee, Nixon opted to run for governor of California in 1962. The governorship would be a vehicle for keeping him out of presidential politics in '64 and open the way for a fresh presidential bid in 1968.

Polls convinced Nixon he had a good chance to oust the state's incumbent Democratic governor, Edmund G. "Pat" Brown Sr., who had a reputation for being somewhat ineffectual. But the election returns proved otherwise and prompted an embittered Nixon to hold what came to be known as his morning-after "last press conference."

Nixon's renunciation of politics seemed complete. He gave up his home base in California and moved to New York to become a Wall Street lawyer.

But Nixon could not resist the pull of the campaign scene. He kept busy stumping for Republican candidates every other autumn and, in the process, stored up political due bills that he collected to make his 1968 comeback.
